Applications available for pre-med students

Pre-med students planning to enter medical school in the fall of 1952 are urged to make application now to take medical college admission tests on May 12 or Nov. 5 of this year.

This announcement was made by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J. which prepares and administers the tests for the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Application blanks are available from pre-med advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must be in by April 28 and Oct. 22, respectively, for the May and November exams.

Many leading medical schools require these particular tests to be taken as part of their regular entrance examinations. By taking the tests in May, pre-med students will be able to send their test scores to the school of their choice at a time when many colleges are selecting their next classes.

The exams cover general scholastic ability, understanding of modern society, and a science achievement test.

New Adult Ed Council plans first dinner-dance for evening students

Night school students will hold a dinner-dance at the Blackstone Hotel on Friday, Feb. 2.

The dinner-dance is the first social function to be sponsored by the new Student Council of the School of Adult Education.

The dinner will begin at 7:30 p. m. An hour of entertainment will precede the dance at 9 p. m. Jack Swanson's orchestra will play for the dance. The price of the dinner is $2 per person; the dance tickets are $1.20 per couple.

Tickets may be purchased from the following council members: Dolores Gautier, Hugh Jackson, LaVonne Lee, James McGuire or Lou Tompsett.

McGuire is president of the Adult Student Council.

College men will likely have the privilege of preferential enlistment in the service of their choice at the end of the semester or the school year, Dr. Milo Bail announced yesterday.

He emphasized that his statement, while not guaranteed, is based on the latest information from top Washington sources.

Dr. Bail also released the following statements, based on the most recent information he has secured from Washington.

1. Men now in college are likely to stay there until completion of present programs; there is a good chance of graduation, particularly in scientific and engineering fields.

2. The armed forces will depend on colleges for officer supply and for basic technical education in science, mathematics and engineering.

3. Enlistments in the navy and air force are at a virtual standstill because of overcrowded facilities. The same conditions exist in the army, thus slowing down selective service.

4. Only 450,000 of the 1,500,000 men who become 18 this year will be inducted into service in 1951 (this statement attributed to George Marshall, secretary of defense).

On the basis of this information, Dr. Bail urged all men now in college to stay in college. The more education a man has, the better chance he will have for assignment to special service or advancement to officer training, he said. High school graduates are advised to enter college immediately.

Flu strikes OU in mild epidemic

The flu-bug or, as it is technically called the influenza bug has been taking its toll of the students at the University of Omaha the past three weeks, striking in mild epidemic proportions.

Miss Beldora Tacke, R. N., school nurse, estimates a daily absence of from eight to ten students. "If early treatment is given," she said, "the student is usually back in classes within three or four days."

Real estate students speak to city board

Five students from OU spoke before the Omaha Real Estate Board, Wednesday, Jan. 17. They described the university's curriculum leading to the new certificate in real estate.

Clifton Westin spoke on real estate principles and practices, Irving Hansen, on development and management; Bob Mitchell, on real estate law, Robert Horak, on finances, and George Bighia, on appraisals. C. G. Lewis, real estate instructor introduced the students.

College men may be given choice in enlistments McMullin will visit OU Vocations Day

Dr. Thomas E. McMullin of the University of Pennsylvania will be guest speaker at the third annual Vocations Day, Wednesday, Feb. 28.

Dr. T. E. McMullin . . . coming for Vocations Day.

An associate professor of education, Dr. McMullin received his master's degree from Columbia University and his doctorate from the University of Kentucky. Before joining the Pennsylvania faculty, he taught at Kentucky Wesleyan College.

Since 1948 he has been vice dean in charge of Pennsylvania's five-year programs. He has also served as consultant in guidance in numerous workshops in the public school system.

There will be no mass industrial and business exhibits in the Fieldhouse this year. Local firms do not know if they will be manufacturing the same things by Vocations Day that they are today. The present world situation may change their industry any day.

However, if desired, there will be industrial displays in the seminar rooms pertaining to the vocation being discussed.

Co-vice Chairmen Jackie Zerbe and Nancy Jones have announced the following seminar chairmen: Lorick McKenzie, sales; Jerry Plunkett, general business; Thomas Meyer, personnel; John Buchanan, secondary education; Donald West, sociology; and Albert Johnson, art.

Others are John O'Hearn, insurance; Andrew Marinkovich, physical education; and C. Allen Scoville, advertising. These are in addition to the chairmen listed in last Friday's Gateway.

'Ill considered action has bitter end for U. S. society' - Utley

"We sometimes reap the bitter harvest of our ill-considered sowings," according to Professor William T. Utley. Utley delivered the first talk in the third annual Faculty Lecture series Wednesday night.

A "better than usual" crowd attended the lecture.

"We do what we want," said Utley, "yet complain of the results." He cited our treatment of foreign affairs as an example of this.

People of a free democracy are obligated to carefully consider the end results of their actions. "Ill-considered planning is not a sign of maturity," said the government professor.

There are five elements to the present "gimme complex" of the American people, said Utley. One is human nature. One is the complexity of modern life and its minute division of labor. Another is political—the politician will promise anything for a vote.

Still another is the evolution of society. The fifth and last is that we are a generation of people who know nothing else.

Dr. Christopher Espinosa is chairman of the series. The next lecture will be held Feb. 11.

GI Bill deadline for most students in July

The second semester will be the last opportunity for most veterans to enter or re-enter education under the G I Bill.

The 1951 deadline applies to World War II veterans who were discharged from service before July 25, 1947.

A veteran must be undergoing training by July 25, 1951 in order to meet the cut-off date requirements. VA officials say that once a veteran completes or discontinues his GI Bill course after this deadline, he may not start another course.

Audio-visual will take poll on value of aids

The Audio-Visual Committee is making preparations for a poll and survey to determine the strong and weak points of the university's present audio-visual program.

Similar questionnaires will be sent to both students and faculty members at the end of this semester. The aim of these questionnaires is to evaluate the usefulness of audio-visual aids in the classroom, from the standpoint of both students and professors.

Morning Coffee Hour scheduled next term

A Coffee Hour will be held in the morning instead of in the afternoon early next semester. This was decided by the Student Council at its last meeting of the semester Wednesday afternoon.

Because many students are not in school in the afternoon, the council hopes that the morning time will be more convenient. The suggested time is 10 to 11 a. m.

The council again discussed the possibility of having Christmas decorations for the Fieldhouse. June Williams was appointed to investigate the cost of having them erected by a local advertising agency.

The possibility of having reserved seats for the Tom Tom Revue to avoid a standing crowd was discussed.

ROUNDUP

by TUCK MOORE

A friend told me a joke once about a gal walking down the street calling for her dog, "Tis". Again and again, she yelled, "Here Tis!"

So I'm taking up the cry with "Here 'tis."—Final exam week, not the dog.

Maybe you wonder what happens to September, October, November and December. Perhaps you're amazed. Maybe you dozed through class while they slipped by. Well, take my word for it. Exam week, if you've never gone through it, seems much longer than any on of those four months.

Then, if your grades aren't too bad, you'll slip into blissful sleep while February, March, April and May slip by. But right now, you're not worrying. May is a long way off.

Yeah, that's what we said last September about January. Well, here 'tis!

Last week, I carried a list of names of records from the Snack Shack saying they were of a poor quality. I meant, in most cases, their sad titles. Recently Gordon Best, helping me extricate my foot from my mouth, challenged me to a record duel. He dared me to list any 24 records of my choice for the juke-box.

Well, Gordon, I'll concede the battle without firing a shot. I can't list 24 records that would make everybody happy. But YOUR selection might make some people feel good (Local joke).

This item weighs six pounds, 11 ounces. It concerns Old Lady Stork who, having nothing better to do, obliged patient and calm Dick Dueser by dropping a bundle of girl-baby on his doorstep (up til now you think his wife didn't have anything to do with it—she did). Dick was transformed into esquire or papa or something last weekend, he informed me while shoveling a nice ripe (green) cigar into my mouth. He commented: "She's all legs."

I whistled—20 years too soon.

Don't gag on this one: A little girl inquired of her playmate, "Why does your grandma read the Bible all the time?"

Her playmate replied, "guess she's cramming for her finals." (Maybe she takes English lit from Dr. Wardle).

I met the typical freshman the other day. Her name was Millie, that's all, just Millie. She could be any one of a hundred frosh or fox that matter, upperclassmen.

Her trouble seems typical of just about everyone at this time. She's swamped by term papers and studies, and the shadow of final exams really has her worried.

I told her that almost every college student had that trouble when they were frosh. I know I did.

Staffers freed for '49 exams

Two years ago this week—

Jack Advers "debunked" the pleas of many students for more heat in the building. His reason was, "you can't please all of the people all of the time."

The Gateway skipped a couple of issues so that "staffers might study for final exams." Editor Bob Seitzer said that he did it for the benefit of his staff rather than himself, because his "D-minus average hadn't slipped any more than a point."

A two-man investigating committee from the Student Council continued its quest into the cafeteria price-hike problem. Wentworth Clarke, head of the committee, disagreed with the head of the cafeteria in saying that prices were "generally the same as downtown restaurants."

Thanks, everyone, it's been fun . .

Well, here it is Jan. 19 and the end of the Gateway trail for the editor. I'd like to take just a few lines here to write without using an "editorial we."

First, I want to thank publicly the staff of The Gateway. Some of you may not realize it, but The Gateway requires a great amount of time. Many of the staffers have spent Wednesday after Wednesday working on the paper from early afternoon until after 8 at night. And often there has been no stop for supper. They have helped out at tasks which technically weren't their duties.

Of course, I think we have all enjoyed working together. But, even so, it has been a sacrifice. Take a look at the names on the masthead; those individuals have done a lot of work. I appreciate it.

Next, I want to thank our news contributors. Some of you we have badgered to near the breaking point. Some of you we have neglected the time you wanted us most. In either case, we were doing our best. Thanks for staying with us.

Last, of course, I want to thank our readers. It is for you that we work late at night. It is for you that we pester our districted news sources. But as long as you're interested in the paper, we're satisfied. And I think you have been interested. When we have made mistakes, you have told us about them. At times, some of you have even gone so far as to compliment us. Thanks again, everyone.

Peru shows speed, skill in 78-47 win

Add speed, aggressiveness, and dead-eye accuracy and the result is a 78-47 Peru victory over Omaha, Monday night at Peru.

The game was a complete reversal from the Peru game, Jan. 5, when the Indians put a scare into the Bobcats before bowing out, 56-53.

Peru offered two big guns in Don Bornschlegel and Omer Meeker whose combined total in points fell three short of the entire Omaha scoring. Bornschlegel potted 24 points while Meeker meshed 20.

The Bobcats scored the first basket of the game and were never headed.

It was 22-10 in the first ten minutes and after that it was strictly no contest. At halftime the Bobcats were sporting a 38-17 margin.

Following the intermission, the Indians found a spark and erased the deficit to 16 points; but Peru quickly put out the fire and pulled away.

It was a night where the Bobcats could do nothing wrong. Their fast break was effective, and they capitalized on every break, to say nothing of their phenomenal shooting ability.

However, the Omaha story was not all blue.

Larry Micheels hit his stride in the second half, and pumped in five fielders plus a free throw to lead the Indians in the point department.

Don Fitch and Joe Arenas played steady ball in the back court collecting seven and eight points respectively.

Backing up Bornschlegel and Meeker were Bob Eilers and Bill Johnson. Eilers was effective under both boards and scored 12 points for the evening. Johnson was a hawk on defense besides being torrid from the floor with 15 points.

Free throwitis again afflicted the Indians. As in previous games, the Red and Black had trouble hitting from the foul line with only nine for 22.

The next tilt promises to be another tough scramble. Washburn University will furnish the opposition at Topeka, Kans., Saturday night. The Ichabods defeated the Indians earlier this season, 56-45.

Chi Omega sets pace in 'mural kegling race

Chi Omega kept nts first place standing in the OUWI bowling league by downing Alpha Xi Delta two out of three games Monday night.

In the other contests Gamma Mu took three straight from Sigma Kappa and NISA blanked Alpha Xi Delta "B" in three games. Zeta Tau Alpha took two of three from Chi O Owls while Sigma defeated the Independents two to one.

Omaha U cagers engage Ichabods in return match

Tomorrow the Omaha University cagers will journey to Topeka, Kans. to clash with the Washburn Ichabods.

The Indians will be out to try to reverse the score of the last encounter with Washburn. The Blues downed Omaha earlier this season, 56-45, on the Indian floor.

Ichabod coach, Ad Miller, has one of the tallest squads to face the Indians this season. Led by center Joe Latas, who is 6-8, the team averages 6-3½. Dick McConnell is the midget of the team, as he stands only 5'10".

The Blues will be playing without the services of Charley Benson, who was the big factor in the first Ichabod triumph over the Indians. Benson has been lost to the service.

The Washburn squad owns a 6-3 record to date, and they are undefeated in the Central Inter-Collegiate Conference, which they lead with three victories.

Chick Gordon is the leading scorer on the Blue squad. Gordon is also second in conference play, as he has poured through a total of 150 points in nine games, for a 16.7 points per game average.

Center Latas and forward Ed Hanson are no slouches at scoring either. Latas has hit for 129 counters, and Hanson is hot on his trail with 116.

Hanson is also a dangerous man under the boards, as he is the best rebounder on the team.

Omaha, who is seeking their fifth victory of this year's campaign, will have the same lineup as for the Peru game, except that Ralph Pettit will replace Bob Rose at forward.

The Indians have bogged down after a fast start this season, as they have dropped their last four games, and five out of the last six.

Otoes cop two tilts, second place in men's 'mural basketball ratings

High-flying Otoes won two games last week to gain a second place hold in the 'mural basketball league.

Last Friday, Otoes trampled Sigma Lambda Beta, 32-10. Mason Zerbe pumped in 12 markers for the victors. Arnold Thorkelsen sparked the losers attack with six points.

Otoes copped their second victory by a forfeit from Theta Phi Delta. Only one Theta player showed up for the game.

Pawnees, playing "fire-wagon" ball, rolled to a 58-11 win over Phi Epsilon Pi in the other Friday contest. Don Peterson drilled 18 points for the winners. Ed Belgrade dropped in seven markers for the losers.

In a Monday game, Alpha Sigma Lambda dumped Delta Sigma Pi 25-6.

Mosiman leads in B team win

Paced by the 22 point production of Tom Mosiman, the Papooses got back on the win trail by dumping Peru B, 59-47, in the prelim Monday night at Peru.

Again the junior varsity, had to put on a last half barrage to insure victory.

Behind 24-21 at intermission, the Papooses started moving in the second canto with Mosiman and Keith Christie engineering the drive.

Mosiman pumped in 16 of his total and Christie potted seven of his 12 points in the late surge.

Bill McCormick was the big cog in the Peru attack with five field goals and six free throws.

It was the second time the junior varsity has defeated the Peru second team this season. In their last outing, the Papooses rambled, 55-45.

The season record now stands at six victories in seven starts for the Papooses, whose only defeat was at the hands of Offutt Field last Saturday.

The Papooses outshot the little Bobcats 24-15 from the field, but fell behind on the free throw line as they made only 11 for 29 tosses.
